THE TERRITORIES

The horse thieves made a haul of $600 at Walla Walla

Sixteen cases have been docketed for the district court which convenes in Vancouver on the first Monday in November

James Sepherd living on the Touchet, near Walla Walla has been arrested for stealing a bull which he killed and sold the meat to his neighbors

A new paper comes to us from Vancouver called the Independent W Byron Daniels is editor and business manager, and he makes a good readable sheet

The following is a summary of the business transacted at the Vancouver land office during the month of August Original homestead entries 8 final, 3 pre emption proof and payment, 2 declaratory statements filed 7, contests adjudicated, 3

As to the first snow of the season the Silver City Avalanche says "The heights of War Eagle mountain in this vicinity were covered with a very thin vestige of snow this morning but not sufficient to justify us in publishing the poem of The Beautiful Snow"

The Idaho Agricultural Park Association have completed their survey for a driving track and fixed upon a location for them stands and buildings, near Boise City, and will put on a good complement of men and forward the work on the track fence and buildings as fast as possible

This is a pretty large one from the Walla Walla Spirit "Mr Christian Muer informed us that he has his crop of 75 acres of wheat threshed and that the average per acre was a fraction over 37 bushels For the number of acres this furnishes a big challenge for the Oregon farmers or any other man to beat"

A J Sands brought down to Silver City four different samples of rock from the Belle Peck mine which was assayed with the following results to the ton Ruby ore $6 855 62 gold ruby ore $7 93 20 silver brown ore $7 71 03 gold brown ore $1 060 32 silver clay ore $560 11 gold clay ore $113 87 silver white ore $126 87 gold white ore $64 49 silver

Mr Z Costin of Walla Walla having loaded his wagons was about to start to Lewiston one morning last week His little boy about seven years old was sitting on the tongue of the trail wagon and was unnoticed by the father The team was started, and it is supposed he fell from the tongue under the wheel which passed over him He was badly hurt and the lower part of his stomach was cut open so that the bowels protruded through the opening Dr Blalock was called immediately to minister to the wants of the little sufferer It is thought by the one who have seen him that he cannot possibly survive the injury many days

Speaking of the wheat market at Walla Walla the Spirit of the 4th inst says The movement of wheat for the past week towards the river has been somewhat retarded by a blockade at the Penchitown depot There is no buildings there in which to store grain The depot is only a temporary one, consequently there were no large buildings erected there There was a clog of freight there for the reason that there are no buildings to accommodate a thousand tons or more at the terminus We incline to the belief that the increase of boats will obviate the necessity of holding freight at any point for the future any longer than the handling of the same will require When it is assured that the necessary boats shall have been put on to take off the grain as fast as it shall arrive there will be great activity in the grain movement and business will assume an entirely new feature. The way it has been it was useless to run the grain to Wallula there to be subjected to increased expense in handling and additional risk Hence the pausing of the cities by the company that all freight shipped after a certain date will be at the risk of the owner or shipper Shippers are not buying wheat The millers are paying 57 cents per bushel for choice lots There is but little changing hands

MINES OF SOUTHERN OREGON

The Galice creek correspondent of the Jacksonville Sentinel in a letter last week, says

The English Mining Company have commenced operations in earnest and their tools have nearly all arrived at their destination and the men putting them to use to the best advantages I believe they now have 160 Chinamen in camp Chinaman Lyman's company of 70 men have been at work a week and have been making pitch very fast Chinaman Conlin's 40 men at work for them and a band of 60 more arrived within the past few days I do not know the number of white men they have employed but suppose that with contractors and all there are about 50 From the time forward work will go on lively When men have good grub at regular hours and know their employer is ready at any time they can turn out a great deal of work

I have heard but little about the quartz mines on Rogue river since I last wrote to you I met Mr Converse on the way who is said that they wanted me to pack in 20 000 lb of freight for them soon which would indicate that everything is lively in that direction One day this week Mr Wm Lomb rowed me some of the best looking rock that I have ever seen come from the Yank It was all from the tunnel being run in by Messrs Baker Rhoss Courtney and others He also showed me rock from below on the ledge of the same claim the rock of which assayed $80 per ton I could see no difference in the rock they are now taking from the tunnel He also informed me that the tunnel was now in from 9 to 33 feet and the rock getting very hard Thus is all I can say at present concerning the mines

There are now about twenty pack animals running regularly and have all they can do which I am confident will continue until Winter sets in It makes one think of old times to see the trains traveling daily to and from camp

The Secretary of the State Agricultural Society states that a premium of $100 is offered for Oregon bred running horses mile heats 2 in 3, $50 entrance to go with the purse Three or more to enter—the trial to be had on Monday afternoon of fair week This trial is to fill the programme of Monday

Last Friday evening the residence of John Tipton, near Roseburg was completely consumed by fire the inmates barely escaping with their lives The fire is supposed to be the work of the horse thieves who have infested the country around the base of Mount Scott for some time past The flames were first seen in the smoke house where no fire has been used for months

Mr Thomas Brown residing in the forks of the Umpqua river has raised sixty acres of wheat which yielded forty eight bushels to the acre and one hundred and ten acres which yielded thirty six and one half bushels to the acre Mr Brown says his grain became so heavy that he was obliged to head it before it was really time and lost as much as would seed the land another year

Sheriff Livingston and party says the Roseburg Plaindealer, who are in search of Henderson the horse thief found his camp last Wednesday morning and captured a keg of syrup a box of candles and some flour Henderson must have been near at hand as fresh tracks of the horse were found The trail was followed some distance but was finally lost in the brush It is to be hoped the sheriff will succeed in capturing the scoundrel

The Pendleton Tribune says Within the week N Swaggart sued J R Bennett for money before Justice Lieuallen of Weston We know little or nothing of the merits of the controversy, and have no intention of mixing in it at all except to say that if reports be true some of the rulings of the magistrate were to say the least very unusual While the defendant was on the stand testifying he was suddenly prostrated by heart disease At last accounts it was doubtful whether Mr B would recover

Speaking of the Umpqua pass across the Cascade mountains the Plaindealer says If this pass is as represented to us, it is much more practicable for a railroad or wagon road than any other route yet examined The trouble with the other routes namely the steep mountain and rim rock near the heads of the streams are by this pass entirely avoided as the head of the river is represented to be free of obstacles The approaches from the east are easy This route should certainly be adopted instead of the Umpqua Fork route for these reasons 1st it is nearer 2d 75 miles of the road is already built 3d it leaves out 70 miles of high snow bound road in winter—from the summit of the Cascades to the Klamath marsh—and adopts the road from Eugene City to Roseburg in lieu thereof reducing the snow line that much and 4th it is a more practicable route It is proposed to send out a practical engineer this fall to examine the pass

The Roseburg Plaindealer says As one of our citizens was leisurely proceeding towards Looking Glass he was attracted by a loud outcry and, upon gaining the summit of a hill he was surprised by seeing a bear quietly devouring a hog which he had captured and about twenty men armed with pitchforks rakes clubs or anything that came handy rushing to the attack Poor brute was some what astonished to have his meals so uncermoniously interrupted but gravely selecting one of the attacking party as the object of his attention he at once made tracks for the victim who dropping his weapons of warfare turned his back and ingloriously fled An other of the combatants trusting to his horse manship attempted to ride over the enemy and at the same time with pitchfork raised charging at the monster as though he was harpooning a whale. At last bruin, completely bewildered by the multiplicity of the attacks resigned himself to his fate, and died an ignominious death having his neck broken by a well directed blow from a rail

THE FISHERS

THE DISTRICT ATTORNEYS BY THAT NAME

[From the Chicago Tribune]

WASHINGTON D C Aug 26—District Attorney Fisher father and son have become much disturbed at the agitation caused by the release of the burglar Snyder One of them has threatened that if pressed too hard they would tell all they knew about the famous safe burglary business As they are likely to be pressed hard, the truth about that infamous business may yet become known The attorney general it seems, cannot remove young Fisher, who calls himself assistant district attorney Upon examining the letter of his appointment to office it was discovered that under a special law which affects only this district the appointment of the assistant district attorney was not made by the attorney general but was vested in the district attorney Under these circumstances the removal from office of Mr Fisher which would have been immediately made has not happened and unless he voluntarily resigns or is removed by his father will remain in his present position until the 1st of September when ex Gov Wells of Virginia will take charge of the office The subject of Snyder's release is undergoing a thorough examination at the department of justice with the certainty of such action being taken as learning as the facts may warrant The attorney general has also written a letter to Judge Fisher United States district attorney for the district requesting to know under what authority of law he appointed his son Charles to the office of assistant district attorney Up to the closes of business hours to day no reply had been received

A SINGULAR WAGER—Mr Walker, an Englishman lately lost a bet which he had made with Sir James Keard on the relative merits of their greyhounds The conditions of the wager were that the successful party could impose any penalty he saw fit on the other The following is the task required of Mr Walker by his adversary "To go to Paris, and every morning during a month to throw himself into the arms of the first gentleman who shall come from the Rue de Vadois into the Place du Palais Royal after the clock has struck nine, at the same time crying out with emotion, My brother! my dear brother! I find thee once more after twenty years" and then to beg the man's pardon" The wager is now being literally infilled.

THE GREAT RACE

HOW GOLDSMITH MAID LOST HER RANK TO LULU—DETAILS OF THE MOST REMARKABLE TROTTING RACE ON RECORD

[From the Buffalo Courier August 26]

The account of this glorious race at Rochester speaks for itself It was the fastest and best race ever trotted on any track, and resulted contrary to general expectation, in Goldsmith Maid being beaten by Mr Harkner's mare Lulu, who trotted last Tuesday at Buffalo the fastest mile of the season, thus far—2 15 The race of yesterday showed the fastest first heat, the fastest fourth heat, the fastest three consecutive heats, and the fastest four consecutive heats ever trotted It was a grand achievement for Lulu and gives her the crown as the queen of the turf though Goldsmith Maid can still cling to the honor of the fastest mile—2 14 The sympathy of the crowd seemed to be with Lulu, an illustration of the old adage, "The king is dead, long live the king" but we could not prevent feeling sad for the gallant little Maid, heroine of a hundred heroic contests, now nearly nineteen years old, who should have been withdrawn from the turf last season, when she had only once suffered defeat, and then in the house of her friends, and not subjected to the ignominy of being vanquished in her old age The ensuing description of the heats tells the story of this magnificent race

FIRST HEAT

The excitement was great as the four great flyers came on the track, and each was enthusiastically cheered as she moved up and down before the stands, the Maid getting, as usual when the queen of the turf appears, the lions share of the applause Dudd Doble held the reins over her, of course, while Green drove Lulu, Turner Nettie and Murphy American Girl The betting was $100 on Goldsmith Maid against $40 for the field, at first, but just before the start the Maid was barred in the pools, and Lulu was selling for $50 against $100 for the field The judges were very particular about the start, and did not give the word until the ninth attempt, an earlier start being prevented by Lulu's breaking In view of her conduct, American Girl took her place as favorite over Lulu and Nettie The heat was a glorious one When they got off Lulu and Goldsmith Maid were even, one length ahead of the others mares, but Lulu made a bad break and fell back, while Goldsmith Maid, shaking her head wickedly, forged ahead and took the pole, American Girl second The favorite flew by the quarter pole, in 33 seconds, with American Girl three lengths Lulu ten lengths behind the Girl and four ahead of Nettie On the backstretch American Girl made a wonderful burst of speed, and amid cries of "The Girl's day has come at last," closed up the gap went to the head of the Maid, drew by her, and at the half, in 1 06, was a full length in advance of Lulu, who had made another break, but trotted very fast when she did trot, ten lengths behind American Girl still drew away on the upper turn, and before reaching the three-quarter pole had opened a gap of three lengths, but the Maid now began to close up, and at the three-quarter pole, in 1 40, was only two lengths behind the leader Now Doble called on the queen of the turf, and down the home-stretch she came like a flash, gaining at every stride Murphy had the whip on the mare, but the Maid was too much for her and passed her near the distance stand, when American Girl resigned the struggle, and the Maid was also pulled up, but crossed the score in the grand time of 2 15½, four lengths ahead of American Girl, who was the same distance in advance of Lulu, who had closed up very fast, it being the fastest first heat ever trotted in a race

SECOND HEAT

The betting now was two to one on American Girl against the field, the Maid, of course being barred Nothing could have been finer than this heat A long time was spent in scoring, and when they got the word Lulu and Goldsmith Maid had little the best of it Lulu made a break and was quickly caught, but the Maid went to the front, and at the quarter, in 33¾, was two lengths ahead of Lulu, with the American Girl at the latter's wheel On the back stretch Lulu gained a little on Goldsmith Maid, and her every footfall was regarded with intense interest But, alas for the hopes of those who wished to see the Maid beaten—as it then seemed! Lulu made a bad break, and by the time Green got her settled she had fallen quite to the rear, and at the half, in 1 07, Goldsmith Maid was two lengths ahead of American Girl, and Lulu fully

THE NEXT QUESTION.

The present status of political parties and questions is such that no one can predict with any reasonable degree of certainty what will be the living issues a year hence. We speak of the living issues, because it is very plain that one at least of the present national parties will endeavor to make the contest hinge to a great extent on an issue that has been dead for some time. But there must be living issues. No party, in this enterprising age and country, can subsist long upon the gratitude of the people for past services, or the enmity of the people for past faults. The demands of the present are too urgent and the hopes of the future too valuable to be sacrificed on even the most cherished memories of a dead past. If the Democracy should carry Ohio this fall, parties may possibly form on the currency question next year, in which case many who have hitherto acted with the Democrats will go over to the Republicans, and some Republicans, especially in the West, will be found in the Democratic ranks. But should the Democracy be defeated in Ohio—that State being the theater of the contest on the currency question—the party will hardly dare go into a Presidential election on a rag-money platform, and there will be no clearly defined issue between the parties as to a financial policy for the government.

Among the subjects that are likely to divide the people, and which may possibly form the line of difference between parties within a short time, we can not but think that of the common or public schools is entitled to be considered. There is manifest at present a feeling that the subject is one over which a conflict is imminent. There is something more than merely a lively interest in the matter; there is a positive uneasiness. An opinion prevails all over the Union, and in all ranks of society, that the sentiment of opposition to popular education, and especially to the common school system, is being industriously cultivated, with a view to the organization of a direct attack upon the system. This feeling, of course, awakens among the friends of popular education a vigilance and activity corresponding to that which they believe to be exercised against it. It is one of the incidents of the situation that the Democratic party has fallen under the suspicion of being, if not the ally of the opposition to the public schools, so far entangled with it by personal relations, as not to be free from its influence and control. The most intelligent, if not the most numerous, portion of that party, we are persuaded, can not be truthfully charged with this, but it is not always the most intelligent, or the most numerous portion of a party, particularly of the Democratic party, that shapes its policy, but the professional politicians; and these generally pay more attention to the preferences and prejudices of any solid body of voters who may chance to hold the balance of power than to the wishes and sentiments of the party at large. Thus it may turn out that the Democracy will allow themselves to be driven and hoodwinked into the practical espousal of the cause of opposition to the public schools.

At present the Democratic journals, orators and even conventions scout the idea that there is any such question before the country. But that will not answer. A subject that is so far before the country that it elicits animated discussion from the press in general, from the pulpit, and from nearly all the associations of men having any connection with social science, and even forms the subject of resolutions in the state conventions of any political party of national character, cannot be ignored, whistled down, or blinked out of sight. The attempt of the Republican party to dispose of the Third Term question in that manner was a signal failure, and the party was forced at last to put itself on record against all schemes of that kind. So recent and so notable an example ought to be a lesson by which the Democracy should profit. They must declare their position on the subject of the schools, or they must take the consequences of being set down as hostile, or willing to be the instruments of those who are hostile, to the system. Will they have the courage to define their position?

STAY AT HOME.

The Pittsburgh Leader is doing a good service to its readers by advising them not to go to the Black Hills to seek for gold. Any one who is making a fair living at home would stand ten chances of doing worse to one of bettering his condition by going to the mines. It has been estimated that on an average a dollar taken from the mines of the Pacific coast has cost five dollars. This estimate does not draw it a whit too strong. And yet there is no room to doubt that the miner who goes to the Black Hills will find the chances more decidedly against him than did the early California miner. A few will make large sums, a good many will make fair wages, and a vast majority will lose their time, the cost of their outfits, and the comforts of home and civilization, and no small number will lose also their health. Such is the history of gold hunting everywhere, and the Black Hills will prove no exception to the rule, though they be found as rich in the precious dust as the most extravagant reports indicate. There is no danger that there will not be miners enough in the Black Hills, without anybody's leaving good employment to go there.

PROSPECTS OF THE SOUTH.

The southwestern States of the Union report unusually cheering prospects for the prosperity of the country. The cotton crop is better than common, and the corn crop is excellent. A dispatch from Arkansas says the cotton crop in that State is finer, than ever before known. The same is true of Texas and the cotton districts of Louisiana. In Louisiana, the corn crop also is estimated to be much larger than ever before raised. If their communities can only avoid for a few years the political disorders that have rent them for some time past, so that the energies of the people can be utilized in attending to their material affairs and the rebuilding of their prostrate industries. Let the people of the south, of both parties, cultivate friendly relations with each other and work together for the welfare of their common country, and the natural advantages possessed by that section will enable them speedily to recover the ground they have lost, and eventually to become the wealthiest people in the Republic.

REV. C. A. HUNTINGTON'S INDIAN SCHOOL AT NEAH BAY.

It is a question how best to teach Indian children. The treaties provide or promise them teachers, school houses and books. The first thought is to build the house, buy the books, hire the teacher and open the school, as you do for white children. But trial shows that it is hard to do them much good unless removed from their homes. Their daily lessons in school are lost in the squalor and ignorance of the wigwam. Rev. Mr. Huntington saw this difficulty when he took the agency at Neah Bay. In October last he took a half dozen of the children to his own home, two miles from their village; removed their filthy rags, washed them, applied scissors and comb, clothed them well, seated them at his table, gave them good beds, and taught them daily lessons in manners, morals, and reading. In a word he adopted them into his family. He has now about twenty-five boys and girls, with a good interpreter. Mrs. Huntington has acted as a faithful matron and mother to these waifs of the forest. His daughter has taught them to sing. Mrs. Ramsdell has lately joined them in the good work. On the last of July Mr. H. took them on a vacation trip to Victoria and Olympia. They gave some rehearsals in the M. E. church at Olympia on the evening of August 5th. They repeated portions of the Scriptures and several hymns in concert and singly, and sang, with much spirit, several Sabbath-school songs, accompanying the organ, led by their teacher, Miss Nellie Huntington. They appeared well in their clean suits, and gave signs of earnest desire to improve.

The chief point which is most hopeful in this effort is that the boys and girls are made to feel at home and happy as children in his family. He treats them as children. They visit their parents once a week, but do not wish to go back to their huts and savage life, and their parents are satisfied with the change. More are coming to stay with him, and in this way he is doing the whole tribe good.

The Atlantic cotton mills, at Lawrence, Mass., which suspended work early in July have resumed and are now running on full time. These mills give employment to 1,200 operatives. The suspension was occasioned by the accumulation of a large stock of goods, production in the line of goods in which the establishment was engaged having exceeded the demand. Sales have been very large of late, however, and the old stock is reduced to manageable limits. A general revival of business in the manufacturing line is expected to take place this fall and winter, and prospects of trade are considered quite encouraging to the manufacturers.

For some reason the Daily Bulletin failed to appear yesterday morning. Rumors were afloat during the day that its non-appearance was attributable to financial embarrassment. Having no definite knowledge of the facts, we can give our readers no information as to whether the suspension is permanent or only temporary.

Postmaster General Jewell allows no opportunity for reduction of the expenses of his department to pass unnoticed. His last effort in that direction is the change of mail service on the Ohio river, so as to make the service more efficient, and at the same time cut down expenses to the amount of $10,000 a year.

As an evidence of the extent of damage done to wheat crops in the Ohio valley by the recent floods, we note that five car loads of wheat were shipped last week from Baltimore to Ohio. The movement of wheat from the Eastern shore to the West is an anomaly never before witnessed.

To-day, the Republican, Democratic and Independent candidates for congress are to open the campaign with a discussion at Jacksonville. By the time they reach Portland they will be just at their best, and if there is any snap to them our people have a chance to find it out.

The New York Herald, with its usual enterprise, illustrates its Black Hills letter, in the edition of August 29th, with a large map of the new mining region, showing the streams, mountains, routes of travel, etc.

Last week it appears that a number of persons were engaged in teaming along the Roseburg and Coos Bay stage road, among them a Mr. Kelly Brigman. The teams were delayed on the road by a fallen tree, burned down by the fire then raging in the woods. The obstruction was removed and as the teams were about ready to start, a second tree fell, coming directly across the necks of the horses of Bigman killing them instantly. Mr. Brigman was standing along side of his team and the horses struck and fell upon him, breaking his thigh in two places. But little hope is entertained for his recovery.

DEPARTMENT DRILL.—At the hour designated by the chief engineer—ten minutes past 4 o'clock—the several engines of the fire department of Portland came promptly to their places indicated yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of engaging in a general drill. At the engines arrived at the intersections indicated by the chief, and at a signal given by the big bell began simultaneously to play. Long before the engines arrived great crowds had collected along on each side of the street, in anticipation of the lively contest which was soon to follow. Most of the firemen appeared in uniform. The engines were placed as follows intersections and played the number of streams mentioned: Willamette No. 1 was stationed at the intersection of Alder and First streets, and played at intervals one and two streams. Multnomah No. 2 (both the old and new steamers), at Stark and First street, played the new steamer alternately one, two and three streams, and the old steamer one and two streams. Columbian No. 3, at Washington and First streets, played one and two streams at intervals. Protection No. 4, at Morrison and First streets, played one and two streams alternately. Tiger No. 5 (hand engine), at Washington and First streets, played one stream. Vigilance Hook and Ladder No. 1 were also out, and went through a short drill, near the corner of Washington and First streets. The engines continued to play vigorously for over half an hour, during which time a vast quantity of water was thrown, First street being perfectly deluged. All the engines were subjected to severe test as to which could throw the highest stream in a perpendicular direction. It was a lively and exciting contest, and was witnessed by the crowds with great interest. Between 1's and 3's the contest appeared the closest, both these steamers sending a stream much higher than any of their competitors. The "tussel" for victory was very warm, but we are inclined to think that No. 1 carried off the laurels of the day. There was very little difference between the altitude reached by the respective streams of 1 and 3, but the popular verdict gave that little difference in favor of the former engine. It was a very handsome sight to witness eight or nine streams being sent up over a hundred feet into the air, all at the same time. No one who was a spectator could repress feelings of pride, which involuntarily rose at witnessing the efficiency of our fire department. We say with all candor that never has the department appeared to better advantage than yesterday, nor demonstrated more strikingly its thoroughability and willingness to save property and life. No city in the Union of equal population can boast of possessing a more magnificent equipped department than Portland. We feel a conscious pride in speaking of the department—its appearance, discipline and thorough organization,—and we think our feelings are heartily shared by every citizen of the city. After playing some time, the preconcerted signal was given, when the engines took up and returned to their respective homes, and the department drill was concluded.

AN ADVENTURE.—Last evening's coteporary contains the following little adventure which befel Gen. Sheridan: "Yesterday (Sunday) in company with his wife, brother and brother's wife, Gen. Sheridan started in a two-horse vehicle for Vancouver, Mr. Le Knott driving. When within about a mile of the ferry landing on this side of the Columbia the springs of the wagon, unused to bearing up so much greatness, all gave way and the wagon bed sank down on the axles, and the general and party were forced to look to the ferry while the driver returned to this city for another vehicle. The driver reached this city last evening on horseback (having taken one of the horses out of the team) about 3 o'clock and securing a new conveyance started back for Vancouver. Gen. Sheridan and party returned to Portland about 6 o'clock last night covered with mud and looking quite demoralized."

ILL.—Judge O. Humason's numerous friends will be pained to learn of the severe illness of that gentleman at his house in the Dalles. On Sunday evening a brother of Mr. Humason, who came down from the Dalles a few days ago on business, received a telegram stating that his presence was required there. Yesterday morning he started for the Dalles in obedience to the summons. The serious illness of Mr. Humason is the occasion of considerable anxiety among the members of his family and intimate friends. His health has been prec

AN APPRENTICE.—Last evening's edition contains the following little adventure which befel Gen Sheridan Yesterday (Sunday) in company with his wife brother and brother's wife, Gen Sheridan started in a two-horse vehicle for Vancouver Mr Lee Kent driving When within about a mile of the ferry landing on this side of the Columbia, the springs of the wagon unused to bearing up so much greatness, all gave way and the wagon bed sank down on the axles, and the general and party were forced to foot it to the ferry, while the driver returned to this city for another vehicle The driver reached this city last evening on horseback (having taken one of the horses out of the team) about 3 o clock and securing a new conveyance started back for Vancouver Gen Sheridan and party returned to Portland about 6 o clock last night covered with mud and looking quite demoralized."

His health has been precarious for nearly a year past Some months ago Mr Humason visited California in hopes of regaining his wonted vigor but his health continued quite poor with but little prospects of ultimate recovery Many friends will unite with us in the earnest wish that Mr Homason may be speedily restored to good health

HORSE KILLED.—A horse used in hauling a dump cart accidentally backed off the steep embankment just south of the Clarendon hotel and was killed. A small boy was driving the animal when the accident happened He had just brought down a load of dirt and began to back the horse near the edge of the embankment when the animal stepped too close and was pulled down, sustaining severe injuries from the effects of which it shortly died The boy escaped unharmed, and no damage was done the cart or harness The horse was a valuable one We understand it belonged to Mr W H. Butts, the street contractor

BOY RUN OVER.—Clifford Stroud son of Mr Geo M Stroud, the well known railroad conductor, aged about 16 years, was run over on Saturday near Jefferson by a hand car, and sustained severe but not fatal injuries He had started out to have a hunt and was riding on the car, when by some accident he lost his balance and fell off. The wheels passed over the boy's chest throwing the car off the track No internal injuries are sustained Fortunately the car was not heavily loaded, and was moving slowly at the time.

THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

We paid an inspecting visit to the First Baptist Church in this city of which the Rev J D Pierce is pastor that had been undergoing repairs for the past few weeks On entering the building we were agreeably surprised at the great improvement apparent at every turn From the basement to the pinnacle of the spire on the outside the building has been treated to a new coat of paint and consequent by presents a bright new and handsome appearance A marked improvement is noticed on the interior of the church The walls and ceilings have been kalsomined and look as clean and fresh as if the plasterers had just completed their labor All the woodwork of the building—the interior—has been repainted which enhances the appearance ten fold and renders the general air of neatness in perfect keeping with the surroundings Another great improvement is the addition of new and elegantly finished blinds to all the windows To the right hand of the pulpit and nearly on the same level a new platform has been built for the choir Around the other edge of the platform a partition has been constructed dividing those who compose the choir from the congregation Surmounting the partition extends a wire, supported at intervals by small posts to which is attached a curtain of green silk The front side of the partition is handsomely finished and of the same architectural style as the pulpit Several other improvements have been added which contribute greatly to the effect of the interior view, as well as to the comfort and convenience of the congregation and visitors There is no neater or better finished church edifice in the city and the popular pastor and the congregation are to be congratulated on the fact We understand that the entire expense incurred in making the long necessary renovation was met by private contributions We cannot omit to mention the fact that the ladies of the congregation contributed very largely to the required sum—raising by their own united efforts, over $150 Services were held last Sabbath in the church for the first time since the repairs were made to the building

OPENING SERVICES

The chief object in rearing up a noble temple is to qualify it for the greatest service for mankind in nobler pursuits than attaining wealth or even mental culture The effect of eloquence and of music is exalted by the place and is aided by the effect of the surroundings It is what Emerson calls the adventitious The effect of the place contributes to the execution The melody of music on the water is sweeter to the listener than the musician knows

The opening selection of music was The 100 Old, composed by Kent Prof Newell spared no pains in drilling the choir to properly render the crescendo movement— Unto O Lord is the greatness—and the power—and the glory—and the victory—and to majesty

The pastor, Rev. D J Pierce preached from 1 Peter 2 v 5 I am no temple worshipper Better the old Baptist name of meeting house which conveys the simple idea of a rallying center for the people of God Paul expressly declares "that the Most High dwelleth not in temples made with hand From the days of Christ God's spirit shone forth through the deeds of his disciples Ye are the temple of God" if any man defile the temple of God him will God destroy" Here then in these living bodies consecrated by living sacrifices to God is his abode hence to these hearts would I urge the importance of keeping sacred the trust lent to the church This house in which we gather this morning, as indeed a beautiful meeting place for another body will see before me a greater sacred mission and beauty God's temple is a spiritual house and the church is his people built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner stone You my dear brethren and sisters have refitted for our temporary use this most tasteful and commodious temple in which we may unite our prayers and efforts for the salvation of souls And now having placed our money, our goods and our labor on this altar upon which we propose to offer spiritual sacrifices we are met together to present our offering to the Lord This house is set apart to whatever purpose or effort may conduce to the upbuilding of the righteous efficiency of this church

Mr Pierce then spoke of the pursuits of mental culture and development for the strengthening of our soul life, and said we may safely use our meeting house for carrying them into effect In short he said I look upon these living stones set up together in this spiritual house as pre-eminently the temple of God and whatever may be used or enjoyed in that spiritual house as such may safely be introduced into its temporal shelter The material of which this spiritual house is composed is human hearts How natural that the worship of all else should be set aside, and man's chief good be considered of prime importance' Christ's peculiar acceptance lay in his being a freewill offering of the heart to God by which we are sanctified through the suffering of the body of Jesus once for all Brethren be careful of this spiritual house examine every stone that not only the outward similitude of a palace scriptural in its model appear on every face polished and beautiful in its completion but that the spirit of Christ breathe through the heart Jesus Christ himself must be the chief corner stone of our house by which all is squared and and plumbed and built up

Do not think of conversion as a finality The temple must be thoroughly refitted and fashioned and cleansed and furnished for the continual service of righteousness Now may the thorough renovation accomplished in the outward and perishable monument to God's goodness be a fit symbol of that continuing and earnest growth attending the spiritual temple and each grow up into him in all things which is the head even Christ Jesus

OREGON CITY ITEMS

Our regular favors us with the following items from Oregon City under date of the 6th inst

A little son of Jennings McCarver added another to the wounded list on Saturday by getting kicked on the head by a horse in such a manner that it was at first thought he was fatally wounded but it is said he is getting along nicely and will recover

The fruit dryer is running night and day curing an immense amount of fruit The plum crop is disposed of and they are now running on apples and pears They are running four evaporators and employ about 40 hands in all Farmers are beginning to appreciate the fact that this is one of the most valuable industries in the country and to give the gentlemen who invested their means in this establishment due credit for their effort to develop the fruit growing possibilities of Clackamas county

On Friday last Willie a son of Josiah Howell of Canemah a lad about 13 years old got his foot entangled in a belt in the woolen mill where he works and got his leg broken in two places below the knee He attempted to throw off a belt which had become partly unlaced, with his foot, in the manner usual in that place when the loose end of the partly unlaced belt caught and hurled him on the floor breaking his leg and otherwise injuring him Drs Ross and Parker set the limb and the lad is getting along as well as may be with so painful a fracture

George Harding the irrepressible George contributed still another to the list of accidents last week George don't often get into difficulty in fact is inclined to be over cautious as his long bachelorhood couches fully shows and as half a dozen or more of blushing damsels in this vicinity know, and sorro wfully lament that it is so but the fates were against him this time and permitted a first class runaway to befall him on his return from a short trip in the country As he was coming down the steep bluff road his team heard an approaching train of cars at which they took fright and in spite of his efforts to prevent it turned around on the narrow incline and started back on a prospecting tour leaving Harding behind to congratulate on the uncertainty of human calculations The horses got entangled in a fallen pine not far up the street and were taken in charge by Charley Cantield after some muscular persuasion on his part Two badly mashed buggy wheels attest that Harding was trying to pet too close to one of the livery stable keepers choosers but it turned out but let em go in good faith He says the unlimited amount of friendly advice he has received on this subject during the last two days will enable him to control most any team in future

THE EVERLASTING PITY.

As lies the blue behind the thunder-cloud,
As dark-like snowdrops 'neath the drifted snow,
As the bright buds till April calls aloud
Hide deep within the black and leafless bough,
So, despite care and sorrow, loss and fret,
God's loving pity guards His children's fates;
Oh, in our darkness let us trust Him yet,
Whose Comforter each patient soul awaits.

Believe the rankling wound in love is sent;
Believe the grief in chastening mercy comes,
And so the bitter "why" to faith will melt,
And so the sweet "because" be among her darling's tombs.
Watching the violets gem the grassy lane
That late in desolate Winter chill we trod,
Let the sweet flowers preach to the lonely pain
The everlasting pity of our God.

SAVING HIS BOY.

A HEROIC BUT FATAL ENCOUNTER WITH A BULL.

On Sunday, August 15th, Mr. Buck, with his little boy, ten years old, attempted to cross an adjoining pasture, in which was kept an embodiment of hell, biding his time of destruction, in the shape of a monstrous wicked bull, the property of Mr. Collins. When but a short distance in the pasture, the bull made for the boy, and seeing the terrible danger to which himself and the child were exposed from the attack of the furious beast, the father bid his son to run for his life, while he remained and fought the monster with a club. The terrible struggle for life then commenced. The horrors of a lifetime were concentrated in that short space of twenty minutes. The paternal impulse was to save his child, even at the expense of his own life (which subsequently proved to be the tribute paid), and next to save himself, for the more he hit the bull the more ferocious it became, while the unfortunate man was fast exhausting his energies.

The charge was keenly felt by Mr. Buck, for never can a man see so much at a glance as when in a situation of extremity. He began to back toward some trees which were standing not far behind him, thinking to find there some refuge from his furious assailant. Fortunately, he succeeded in reaching the trees, and after dodging about from one to another, climbed one, out of reach of the bull. The physical prostration and his mental condition, after so terrible a struggle, can only be imagined, and to add to its intensity, the mad beast reached the tree, and, standing under it, tore the ground with his hoofs. His agony of mind, for fear of the limb breaking, could have known no bounds, for during his delirium, for days before his death, the only audible ejaculations he uttered would be his fear of the limb breaking, or that he would fall. While in the tree he took a chill, but started to work the next day; during which he was obliged to go home. From that time he began to sink, until Friday morning, when death terminated his sufferings.—Galena (Ill.) Gazette.

THE MODERN TAINT IN POETRY.

We have spoken of a certain modern taint that impairs the work of the foremost poets of the day. For example, read the two latest English tragedies, Swinburne's "Bothwell" and Tennyson's "Queen Mary." In "Queen Mary" the self-consciousness is so prevalent that to many readers it has little interest save a literary interest. Author and reader are above all, we should say, concerned with how the work is to be done, and how it has been done. That it is powerful in separate passages; that in conception of the different characters, in tone, in historical fidelity, it is a chaste and beautiful poem,—this may be felt; but in a tragedy we expect other qualities: fire, strong passion, singleness and strength of impression, a dramatic movement. In a tragedy, above all things, we should find spontaneity, abandonment. But if Tennyson does not give us these, surely we shall have them in this latest drama of Swinburne!

The modern taint is shown in "Bothwell," however, in another and more melancholy way. That poem is the latest and most lamentable development of an art tone nurtured by influences at work in the England of to-day; the result of which tone is that certain moods, experiences, and essential qualities of life or art are looked upon as separate from their necessary relations. That love, for instance, is a life; that melody is a thing of the inmost mind and soul; that the former is not a function to be analyzed and made mere artistic use of; that the latter is something that comes not with much critical palaver, much jingling of rhyme and rhythm, but solely and singly from a melodious thought, a heart full of music and singing;—these matters cannot be unknown to any poet, but they seem to have been strangely forgotten by certain living English bards and notably by the author of "Bothwell."—Scribner for September.

MECCA.—A rich Arabian merchant of Bussorah, Ali-el-Raschid, who was received the other day in Paris by the Sultan of Zanzibar, and who has returned to his own country, passing through Vienna was, in the middle of January, the guest of the Grand Chief of Mecca, Abdullah-Un-Aun. He relates what follows concerning that great dignitary of Islam. That high personage speaks French; he lives one-half in the European manner, and keeps an excellent table. It is served with the finest porcelain, but is a stranger to knives, forks and spoons, those implements being superseded by the fingers. However, in the house are to be found arm-chairs covered with velvet, richly carved tables, and other pieces of furniture customary in Europe, all bought in Constantinople. Living is very dear at Mecca, at the period of the pilgrimages, as more than 100,000 men are to be found in the place. A pound of beef costs 7d. and the same quantity of bread 10d. The streets are lighted at night with petroleum brought from America. The lamps are made in that city; the cost is defrayed by the householders. The streets are paved, and for the most part by nature, for the soil on which Mecca is built is silex. Consequently, very few wells are in existence, and the water required is brought by aqueducts. The houses are very high, as many as seven stories. The place possesses a postoffice, from which letters are sent once a day to the port of Djeddah. On their arrival they are delivered at their addresses by the postman, who receives for his trouble, for each, twopence halfpenny.

A SINGULAR WHIM.—In Paris there is a very singular misanthrope who never smokes anything but the vilest cigars—those which are sold for a sou. The other day a friend asked the cause of this eccentricity. "It gratifies me in this way. I arrive at the theater in my carriage. The prancing horses are pulled up, and I alight with dignity, at the same time throwing away my half-smoked cigar." "Well, what then?" "I think how badly sold the fellow is who picks up the stump, thinking he has hold of a fragrant Havana."

A printers' reader in Leeds, England, has been sent to the House of Correction for fraud. Having for a long time been employed in correcting the errors of others, he has now gone to be corrected himself. We trust that after due locking up, he will present himself as the clean proof of a better man, and will also carefully revise his future mode of life.—Press News.

The opening of business this week shows no important developments that would give an indication as to the turn matters will take in the next few days, although it is expected that some more life in trade circles generally on the coast will be manifest before the present week closes. The interruption to the movement of our surplus wheat crop is the most important and only serious result, as far as Oregon is concerned, of the recent collapse in financial circles in the Bay City. While the production of wheat in our state is not a great deal larger than last year, the price which it commands is much higher, and consequently a greater amount of money is required to move it. The farmers' money is legitimately employed in the production, and as a general rule his necessities render it imperative that he should realize on his products at an early day after he gets them into the warehouse ready for market. Therefore, a great part of our crops being ready for the market, a large amount of funds should be available to give an active tone to the market, and to pay the farmers for it, to move it from the interior and to place it on shipboard, before English money can be had for it. A scarcity of money at the time the crop is required to be moved works a hardship to the farmer, especially, for if capital is scarce buyers will be few, competition slight and the market weak, if not declining. The wheat trade in this state has been somewhat in this condition for two weeks past, and though quoted prices have been the rule, there has not been that activity and firmness in the market that there would have been with an easier feeling and less fears of difficulty in the market.

Adulteration of Coin.

There is an impression on the mind of the general reader that American gold coin is greatly adulterated, as compared with that of European. From the British Trade Journal of a recent date we copy the following table:

Bar gold, standard ounce	77	9
Bar gold, fine, standard ounce	77	9
Bar gold, refinable, standard ounce	76	11
United States gold coin, standard ounce	76	2½

The difference, then, between the British standard gold ounce and American coin is 1s. and 5½d.—about 30 cents. An adulteration of less than 2 per cent.

Recent Frosts.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce of Aug. 25th says:

The crops of portions of Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, suffered by the frosts of last saturday and Sunday nights. Corn growing on low lands, spring and root crops, tobacco and buckwheat were, in places, very much damaged. So wet, cold and backward has been the entire season that such an early visitation has been for some time feared. Growing crops now greatly need warm, dry weather till the 1st of October. Could we be thus favored the past and present would be in a great measure redeemed.

United States Exports.

Dr. Edward Young, of the United States Bureau of Statistics at Washington, has recently made a valuable compilation from official figures, showing the values of chief articles of exports from the United States, from which we extract the following table. It shows the aggregate values of such staple productions exported as are therein mentioned, each column of figures representing the decade closed with the year named:

Corn	$ 13,033,522	$ 37,501,860	$ 82,268,925
Rye & oats	3,631,784	7,717,202	16,120,321
Wheat	15,641,578	75,023,030	293,316,670
Rice	23,989,774	21,977,452	2,438,080
Corn meal	32,021,273	9,064,883	12,669,760
Flour	100,431,897	180 143 666	225,703,615
Cotton	503,460,822	1,226,058,865	1,639,952,510
Tobacco	91,852,218	191,171,634	228,757,791

The falling off in rice and cotton during the last decade is attributable to the rebellion of 1861, the growth of those articles being confined to the southern states. No reports of the value of domestic exports from southern ports were received from 1861 to 1865 inclusive. Returns received since the termination of the war show that the exports from southern ports in 1861 were valued at $154,130,968. It will be noticed that, excepting rice and cotton, the exports of all the great staples of the country, for the period between 1861 and 1870, show a marvelous increase, notwithstanding the prevalence of a devastating war which continued for one-half the period computed.

Grain and Provision Reports.

Chicago elevators at the commencement of business, August 23d, contained 954,000 bushels of wheat, 2 587,810 bushels of corn, 226,486 bushels of oats, 16,817 bushels of rye, and 9,133 bushels of barley, making a grand total of 3,084,611 bushels, against 3,686,421 bushels one week before and 3,592,039 bushels at the same period last year.

Milwaukie warehouses, at the close of business on the same date, contained 335,281 bushels of wheat, 22,089 bushels of corn, 11,733 bushels of oats, 9,475 bushels of rye, 6,513 bushels of barley.

Below will be found the amount of grain in sight in the states and Canada, August 14, 1875: Wheat 7,168,983 bushels; corn, 7,874,541 bushels; oats, 1,178,723 bushels; rye, 81,930 bushels; barley, 41,987 bushels.

The exports from the leading seaboard ports during the week, August 26th, included, 2,765 barrels of pork, 1,018,018 pounds of lard, 4,458,722 pounds of bacon, 58,342 barrels flour, 1,354,291 bushels wheat, 455,216 bushels of corn, and 8,821 bushels of rye.

San Francisco Money Market.

From the commercial report in the Morning Call of September 4th we take the following as to the money market in San Francisco on that date:

The financial situation is steadily improving. The Merchants' Exchange Bank resumed business this morning, as per announcement, without any indications of a run, and during the day received more money than it paid out. The Bank of California is getting its affairs into shape, and it is thought will resume about the 15th inst. Over $300,000 has been paid into the bank since its suspension. The trust company are making every effort, and will resume at an early day. There is $300,000 in coin on the way from New York for the banks, and $500,000 of the mint fund has been transferred and refused here to-day. The banks for whose benefit this transfer was made are the following: Anglo-Californian Bank, $200,000; the Merchants' Exchange Bank, $200,000; and the London and San Francisco Bank, for a bank in Portland, $50,000. There is $1,000,000 still remaining in the mint fund for the purchase of bullion, which will probably soon find its way into the market.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Idaho sailed for San Francisco at 7 o'clock this evening, with freight only.

The steamship California sailed for Sitka and intermediate ports this evening at 7 o'clock, with a small freight list.

The steamship John L. Stephens, from San Francisco, with freight and passengers, will be due at this port to-morrow night.

The damaged portion of the cargo of the City of York is being discharged, and she will very soon be able to resume loading, and will have fair dispatch, notwithstanding her disaster.

The brig Sea Wafd is moored at Flanders' wharf, where she will be loaded with wheat by the Salem Flouring Mills for San Francisco.

The bark Tam O'Shanter, a vessel new from the Coos Bay shipyard, is at Astoria. She will probably go to Cementville for lumber.

The bark H. N. Carlton, before reported at Hongkong destined for this port, was still at the former place August 20, announced to sail for New York.

Under orders of Mr. Charles Lancaster, agent for the Lloyds, a survey of the ship City of York is being held, but the surveyors had not made up their report at a late hour this evening.

San Francisco Markets.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 6.—Flour—City millers advertise $6 75 as the top rate for jobbing lots extra.

Wheat—Rather more inquiry on change this morning, resulting in sale of one lot of 2,850 sks choice rolling at $2 12½.

Barley—$1 40@1 45 for feed; $1 55 to $1 59½ for new brewing; small lot of choice old bay brewing reported at $1 80.

Oats—Choice lots very light at $1 60@1 70; heavy feed, $1 35@1 90.

Hay—$12 to $18.

Potatoes—Sweet, $1 37½@1 50; all other kinds, $1 40 down to $2 25.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—The week opens with a somewhat busier movement of purchases already made to tide-water, but actual transactions are still of and buyers report nothing doing and quotations nominal at $1 60 per cental. The receipts are increasing and the vessels at hand to load will have quick dispatch.

FLOUR—Shipments of considerable magnitude are still made both to San Francisco and to ports to the north. The stocks in the hands of agents of our state mills in this city are not large. Quotations are weak but unchanged.

OATS—Late advices indicate that the crop will not show any marked improvement on that of last year. The crop will not be so short, taking the larger acreage into consideration, but the yield per acre will be about the same. Exportations are light, and receipts are more than equal to the demand. The market may be quoted at 50c ₱ bushel sacked.

FRESH FRUIT—The market is filled with ripe fruits of all seasonable kinds and prices are moderate, but quotations depend altogether on quality and condition and the wants of buyers. The supply of peaches during the week has been large.

BACON—The supply is not so large, and with a falling off in receipts prices are advancing, and quotations are now furnished at 12½@13c ₱ lb for sides, 15@16c for hams, and 8@9c for shoulders.

LARD—The supply is not excessive and quotations are firm at 15@16c per ₱ lb in kegs or tins.

BUTTER—Fair demand, the range being from 25@30c. In kegs we quote extra at 22@25c ₱ lb in jobbing lots.

CHICKENS—Good chickens are in demand at $1 50@1 75 ₱ doz for full grown, and for spring from $2@3 50, according to size and quality.

BEEF ON SALE—The market is well supplied, and prices rule low. The quotations are 1½@1½ on foot and double those rates neat.

MUTTON SHEEP—A light demand rules at from $2@2 75 ₱ head.

HIDES AND FURS—There is quite an active trade for the season, and we quote best selected hides at 13c ₱ lb; bulls, ½ off; green, 6c; elk, 18@20c ₱ lb; deer, 18@35c ₱ lb for dried, and 50@75c each, green; mink skins, $1 50 each; otter, $1@5 each; beaver, 75c@$1.

WOOL—Each outgoing steamer takes a supply to San Francisco. Receipts are not heavy and all that is offering finds a ready market. The quotations range from 14@18c for Eastern Oregon and 20@25 for Valley.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills,
For all the purposes of a Family Physic,

CURING

Costiveness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Dysentery, Gout, Stomach and Breath, Erysipelas, Headache, Piles, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Tetter, Tumors and Salt Rheum, Worms, Gout, Neuralgia, as Dinner Pill, and Purifying the Blood, are the most congenial purgative yet perfected. Their effects abundantly show how much superior they are to all other Pills. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. They purge out the foul humors of the blood; they stimulate the sluggish or disordered organ into action; and by their tonic health and tone to the whole being. They cure not only the every day complaints of every body, but formidable and dangerous diseases. Most skillful physicians, most eminent clergymen, and our best citizens, send certificates of results performed and of great benefit they have derived from these Pills. They are the safest and best physic for children, because mild as well as effectual. Being sugar coated, they are easy to take, and being purely vegetable, they are entirely harmless.

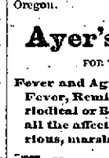
Ayer's Ague Cure,
FOR THE SPEEDY RELIEF OF
Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.



Has been widely used during the last twenty-five years, in the treatment of these distressing diseases, and with such unvarying success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. The shaking chills, once broken by it, do not return, until the disease is contracted again. This has made it an accepted remedy, and trusted specific, for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South.

Ayers' Ague Cure eradicates the noxious poison from the system, and leaves the patient as well as before the attack. Its wonderful cures of this character, in all parts of the country, are so numerous and so thoroughly authenticated, as to place it beyond a doubt, the most reliable remedy known for Liver Complaints, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dysentery or Bolitis follow the cure. Indeed, where Disorders of the Liver and Bowels have occurred from Miasmatic Poisons, it removes the cause of them and they disappear. Not only is it an effectual cure, but if taken occasionally by patients exposed to malaria it will expel the poison and protect them from attack. Travelers and residents in Fever and Ague localities are thus enabled to defy the disease. The General Debility which is so apt to ensue from continued exposure to Malaria and Miasm, has no specific remedy.

For Liver Complaints, it is an excellent remedy.
